[Handwritten text and diagrams related to mechanical or architectural drawings, possibly involving measurements and geometric figures.]
This page contains a series of drawings and annotations in Latin. The text appears to be discussing mechanical or architectural principles, possibly related to levers or pulleys. The drawings show various mechanical devices, and the annotations include calculations or descriptions related to these mechanisms.